

NOTES ON CONTRIBUTORS

Biko Agozino is Associate Professor in the Department of Criminology, Indiana University of Pennsylvania.

Olakunle George is Assistant Professor in the Department of English at the University of Oregon, Eugene. He teaches courses in African Literature, Literatures of the Black Diaspora, and Critical Theory.

Caroline Kumah is a former student of Binghamton University and is presently working in New York City.

Madonna Owusuah Larbi is the Executive Director of MATCH International Centre, a Canadian non-governmental organization based in Ottawa, Canada. MATCH was established in 1976 to bring life to a woman-centred vision of development work.

Walusako Mwalilino received a master's in journalism from Columbia University Graduate School of Journalism, and a master's in international relations from The Johns Hopkins University School of Advanced International Studies. He previously worked for the United Nations, and is presently at the Library of Congress, Washington D.C.

Tola Mosadomi is a scholar and poet. She has a PhD in Linguistics and Francophone Studies from Tulane University.

Obioma Nnaemeka is Associate Professor of French, Women's Studies, and African American Studies at Indiana University, Indianapolis. She is the President of the Association of African Women Scholars.

Nkiru Nzegwu is Associate Professor in the Departments of Africana Studies and Art History, and in the Philosophy, Interpretation, and Culture program at Binghamton University.

Mojubaolu Olufunke Okome is Assistant Professor in the Department of African American Studies at Fordham University, New York. Her research focus is International and African Political Economy, Economic and Political Development, Comparative Politics, and Globalization.

Paul Onyemechi Onovoh is Assistant Professor of French at Clark Atlanta University, Atlanta Georgia and adjunct faculty of German at the Kennesaw State University in Kennesaw, Georgia.

John N. Orij is Professor of African History in the Department of History at California Polytechnic State University in San Luis Obispo.

Titilayo Ufomata is Associate Professor of Speech Communication at Kentucky State University, Frankfort.

Citation Format

HASH(0x8321c10). (2000) NOTES ON CONTRIBUTORS. West Africa Review: 2, 1.
<http://www.icaap.org/iuicode?101.2.1.9>